A GLIMPSE OF SMYRNA.

Its Greatest Business Street is Only Fifteen Feet Wide.

Let us in imagination go ashore at Smyrna from one of the great black steamships of the Messageries Maritimes. We land on a noisy, bustling quay alongside of which runs a little horse railway. Great ships from most of the leading ports of the world are tied up to the quay by their sterns. On the other side of the broad street, the only one in Smyrna to which this adjective can be applied, are large warehouses and one or two pretentious hotels.

Passing through a cross street, we come to the great business artery of the city, the so called "Frank street," which has doubtless obtained its name from the fact that so many Franks, a generic name for foreigners, do business on it.

This street is only fifteen feet wide, and yet it is the chief business thoroughfare of a city of a quarter of a million inhabitants. Two people stretching out their arms and touching hands in the middle could span the street, and yet through it hurries a constant stream of foot passengers, dashing cabs, stately camels, donkeys and donkey boys, beasts of burden and men of burden, carrying every conceivable article that people of the orient or the occident might want, for this is one of the chief cities in the world where east and west meet on a common footing.—Christian Herald.

Exhumation of Milton.

One of the most curious instances of exhumation was that of Milton's remains at the parish church of St. Giles, Cripplegate. Doubts having been expressed as to the exact position of the grave, the ground was opened in 1790. A struggle for relics followed, bones, teeth and hair being seized by the parish officials. Crowds flocked to the church and paid the gravedigger 6d per head to see the remains, while the workmen engaged there shared in the plunder by refusing admission to any one who would not pay the price of a pot of beer. And finally the poor rector, who had not shared in the spoils, brought an action "for the recovery of dues unjustly withheld from him."—London Chronicle.

A New Business Law

Chapter 154, Page 270, Oregon Laws, 1913.

Regulating Persons Doing Business Under an Assumed Name.

"No person or persons shall hereafter carry on, conduct or transact business in this state under any assumed name or under any designation, name or style, corporate or otherwise, other than the real and true name or names of the person or persons conducting such business or having an interest therein."

The law in brief is: Such person or persons shall file a certificate in the county clerk's office in the county in which said business is conducted, with the names of all interested persons in said business and their postoffice address.

All persons now conducting any business, as is stated above, shall file and have recorded and indexed in a book kept for that purpose a certificate, as above required, within 30 days after this act shall take effect. (Law became effective June 3.)

Non-compliance with this law will prevent and debar any person or persons conducting, carrying on or transacting business as aforesaid from maintaining any suit or action in any courts of this state.

"Any person violating any provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $100."

Blanks necessary to conform to the above law can be had from the Tidings for 10 cents each or three for 25 cents.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J., writes: "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything I want." For sale by all dealers.
